1. Purpose

- 1.1 All universities have a duty to take reasonable and necessary steps to ensure that children, young people and adults at risk are safe and that reasonably foreseeable harm does not occur. This policy and accompanying procedure ensures the University undertakes its statutory responsibilities in relation to the safety and welfare of children, young people, adults at risk with whom the University's work brings it into contact.
- 1.2 This policy sits under University's Safeguarding Framework, and together with the other policies and procedures under this framework, ensures the University can provide a safe and secure environment whilst supporting student welfare and wellbeing.

Scope

- 1.3 This policy applies to all members of the University including staff, students, contractors, volunteers (irrespective of whether they act in a paid or unpaid capacity) and visitors, who may be working with children, young people or adults at risk through teaching, research, professional services and outreach activities whether on or off of our campus.
- 1.4 A small number of departments will have supplementary Safeguarding procedures which are departmental specific in order to meet regulatory requirements that do not apply to the University as a whole. This includes, but is not limited to, the Faculty of Education, the Faculty of Medicine and the Counselling Service.
- 1.5 Where University-led activity is hosted by another organisation within their own facilities, the host organisation's Safeguarding policy and related procedures will normally take precedence. However, University members should remain mindful of their obligations under this Safeguarding policy. Where a university student is on a placement or not physically present on campus, they will be subject to the localised Safeguarding policies and not the University Safeguarding policy. E.g., where the student is placed in a school environment, they will be subject to the school's Safeguarding policy.
- 1.6 The University is a mainly adult, independent learning environment. It cannot act "in loco parentis" and the ultimate responsibility for students under the age of 18 rests with those who have parental responsibility. Any parent, guardian, school or group responsible for the safeguarding of children, young people and vulnerable adults brought onto university premises, are responsible for them during the duration of their visit. The University does not accept responsibility for ensuring the safeguarding of children, young persons or vulnerable adults who are present on university premises without its knowledge or consent and who are not enrolled as students.

3. Policy statement

3.1 The University aims to adopt the highest possible standards and take all reasonable steps in relation to the safety and welfare of children, young people and vulnerable adults with whom the University's work brings it into contact.

3.2 Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility, as all individuals, including children, young people and vulnerable adults, have a right to be protected from harm, abuse and neglect. However, the University recognises that it is not the responsibility of all staff, students or visitors to investigate or establish if there is a safeguarding concern. Concerns should be raised under the University procedures to enable trained staff to be involved.

3.3 The University's approach to safeguarding will be person-led and outcomes-focused, which means engaging individuals in how best to respond to their safeguarding situation in a way that enhances involvement, choice and control as well as improving quality of life, wellbeing and safety. In this approach the University is mindful that adults with capacity (as defined by the Mental Health Capacity Act 2005) have the right to self-determination, including the right to make unwise decisions and/or not to engage with support.

3.4 In developing the safeguarding procedures, the University commits to ensuring:

- Staff, student and visitors are made aware of the University's safeguarding policy, procedure and expectations.

- Staff safeguarding roles are established with clear responsibilities for the prevention and management of allegations or concerns.
- Appropriate initial and refresher safeguarding training is provided for staff and students.
- Consistent good safeguarding practice is embedded throughout the University, through safe recruitment practices and risk assessments with associated internal controls being in place for activities involving children, young people and/or vulnerable adults.
- Students and staff who might be at risk of radicalisation or exploitation have appropriate support in place.
- The process enables a consistent, appropriate and sensitive response to the reporting and handling of allegations or concerns
- Where safeguarding referrals are made to relevant statutory authority such as Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO) these will be proportionate and made on the basis of consideration of the identified risks, including consideration of the impact of the referral on those involved and the support available for all parties.
- Appropriate support is provided to staff and students involved with a safeguarding concerns, investigations, or referrals (reporter and accused). Where safeguarding referrals are made to relevant statutory authority such as LADO, support may also be provided by the statutory authority.
- Reviews are conducted post incidents in order to improve internal controls.
- Adequate records are maintained, and information shared appropriately and in line with the University GDPR policy; taking into consideration that confidentiality cannot be guaranteed as information may need to be shared; but that confidential information will only be shared minimally or as required, where this is considered to be necessary and will only be shared with relevant third parties on a need-to-know basis.

3.5 Non-permanent staff such as Visiting Lecturers and volunteers, may be eligible to use an abridged safeguarding training procedure and not complete the training provided by the University.

To be eligible for the abridged safeguarding training route, non-permanent staff must have successfully completed initial and/or refresher safeguarding training in a Higher Education, Further Education or Secondary School establishment within the last three years and have documentation to prove this.

They must complete the Abridged Safeguarding Training Form in Appendix A, attaching their proof of training to the completed form and submit this to HR.
